

Wearable Portable Architecture

Live stream

Wearable Portable Architecture

Live stream

New York visual artist, Mary Mattingly, reimagines our urban landscape to consider a future where people can connect via wearable portable architecture – individual mobile shelters that can contract, expand and come together to collect water, store food and produce power. Mary will explore the design considerations for the Victorian context.

Suitable for

Years 9–11

Subject areas

The Arts, Critical & Creative Thinking, Ethics & Sustainability
